(Daniel Turner ' s case)

THE COURT: Ladies and gentlemen, what those two announcements mean is that the 14 of you in the jury box will hear this case; 12 of you, but at this point we do not know which 12 will decide the case. We'll deal with you in just a couple of moments. We're going to break for what I said will be a long lunch, but then we will start the trial this afternoon. It turns out that with regard to one of our other juries, and that's why there's been all this somewhat distracting commotion going on behind me, one of the other juror's husband has become ill, so we need to replace a juror on the other case. Fortunately, we still have the panel that preceded you available, so right after lunch we're going to select one more juror in that case to fill out that panel and then about three o'clock we'll be able to start this case.

It's important that we do it then, even though it won't give us a lot of time because there is a discernable part of the case we can finish; preliminary instructions and opening statements today so that tomorrow morning we can start fresh with the first witness and have nothing that will interfere with that.

As to the other ladies and gentlemen, I

LESLIE BROWN, CSR KENT COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT
(616) 336-3786

1 thank you for being here for two days. I know there's a sense 2 of you fell you've just wasted your time for being here for 3 all that time and not being selected. I want you to know, 4 however, from my perspective, it was not waste of time.
5 Having you there to fill slots as they became available up 6 here was very much a part of the decisions that were made.
7 So, you had your part to play in this case and you very much 8 did indeed have a role, although it was a very inactive one 9 from your position, but it was a very real one. Would you 10 please return to the assembly room to see if there is anything 11 else going on today for which they need jurors? I don't 12 believe there is, but I don't know.

13 As for the jurors in the jury box, ladies
14 and gentlemen, we will, this afternoon before we start 15 anything, administer to you the traditional jurors' oath.
16 But, I'm not going to do that know because once that oath is 17 administered, we are irrevocably committed to going forward.
18 Had I administered an oath to the jury selected yesterday, we 19 wouldn't have the luxury of being able to replace the one 20 juror who has a legitimate reason not to be here. I certainly 21 hope lightening doesn't strike twice. But, just to be safe, 22 I want to have that option available.

23 Please do not pay attention to anything 24 that you might see in the media, be it between now and 25 resumption at three o'clock or at any time during this case

1 that relates either to this case or to anything that sounds
2 like this case. I, frankly, do not believe you will see 3 anything in the paper today about this matter, frankly, during 4 the course of the trial you probably will because there was 5 some publicity about it. Other people will. You shouldn't 6 look at that, but we'll deal with that when the time arrives.
7 The same is true about broadcast reports.

8 But it's equally important that if you see 9 something that looks like this case or resembles this case, 10 but is obviously not, you shouldn't pay attention to it either 11 for the simple reason it is not this case. Whatever 12 similarities there are are just fortuitous and may very well 13 get in the way of evaluating this case because of a whole host 14 of dissimilarities, most of which we won't know about. So 15 it's an impossibility to educate people to ignore that which 16 is dis-similar. So, just ignore any and everything that 17 sounds like this particular case.

18 Ms. Hull will be here in a moment to show
19 you which jury room we're going to use and where to report 20 back this afternoon. Please be back by three o'clock. In 21 addition to avoiding any news coverage of this case, please 22 don't talk about the case with anybody. That includes, among 23 yourselves. You can say, if someone asks, you've been 24 selected to sit on a case where the charges are of kidnapping 25 and criminal sexual conduct, but please don't go further than

1 that because, frankly, the moment you start talking with 2 people, you start coming to some conclusions. That's how the 3 mind works. You talk a little bit about it, you think about 4 it, you come to some conclusions and, obviously it's much, 5 much too soon to do that.

6 We'll see you at 3:00, and if the first 7 thing which happens is not me instructing the clerk to 8 administer to you your oath, please raise your hands and 9 reminds us, because just like we're irrevocably committed to 10 going forward once you take that oath, if I don't give it to 11 you, everything we do doesn't count.

12 (Jurors exit courtroom, short break 13 had, and court resumes)

14 THE COURT: The Court is convened, at the 15 moment, in the case of The People versus Daniel Arthur Turner.
16 The point of being in session without the jury is to deal with 17 some legal issues that counsel wish addressed before they make 18 opening statements.

19 One of the issues is, I understand, to be 20 joined in by counsel for Mr. Stephen Turner. We are awaiting 21 her arrival so that, hopefully, we can do this efficiently one 22 time.

23 In the interim, we will deal with the one 24 issue which is being brought on behalf of Mr. Daniel Turner.
25 Mr. Mirque?

1 MR. MIRQUE: Thank you, your Honor.

2 Before we begin the opening statements, I 3 have one question, and that question is what are exactly the 4 elements of the crime of kidnapping a child under the age of 5 14, MCL 750.350?

6 Defendant Turner proposes that this brand
7 of kidnapping also carries with it an element of asportation, 8 which has historically shown under the more garden-variety 9 kidnapping under 750.349.

10 The Court in Adams, and more recently the 11 Court in Wesley, confirmed that the asportation element in 349
12 as to the forcible confinement part of the statute is a 13 necessary ingredient the prosecution needs to prove.

14 The Court in Wesley and Adams, felt that 15 the other aspects of 349 did not need the asportation element.
16 That being the specific intent to hold hostage, the specific 17 intent to extort money, the specific intent to commit murder, 18 or the specific intent to secretly confine an individual.

19 The Court said in Adams that given these 20 specific intent elements, there was not a necessary -- it was 21 not necessary to have an asportation element because of the 22 nature of these specific intents. Hostage taking, extortion, 23 secret confinement, elevated what was once believed false 24 imprisonment, a misdemeanor to a life -- to a capital offense.

25 Historically, kidnapping, false

1 imprisonment was a misdemeanor. Apparently a liberal reading
2 of 349 elevated it to a life offense. And it was on the verge
3 of being declared unconstitutional that the Court in Adams 4 interpellated this asportation element to within the statute, 5 where prosecution's theory is enforceable confinement. The 6 defendant requests is that that similar element of asportation 7 also be read into 350.

8 The Court in Adams identified three 9 problems that the forcible confinement in 349 faced, 10 constitutionally, in order to develop the asportation. Those 11 three problems were:

12 One, elevation of a common-law misdemeanor
13 into a capital crime.

14 The second problem that Adams identifies 15 is that it converts lesser crimes, for example, an assault and 16 battery, into a life offense, just based upon mere movement to 17 complete the crime.

18 And the third problem was that the 19 prosecution -- the fear of prosecuting overcharging for the 20 same reasons that problem two would have given the basis for 21 overcharge.

22 The Court in Adams, the Court in Wesley 23 felt that if you take an adult from this room into that room 24 in the Court's hallway, that -- and he slapped him, clearly an 25 assault and battery in the other hallway, because he moved him

1 a mere distance of ten feet to complete this assault and 2 battery, the prosecution now has the opportunity to charge him 3 with a life offense.

4 Wesley and Adams says, no, that's not the 5 case. There's got to be something more. There's got to be an 6 independent act. The movement has to be more than just simply 7 incidental to the assault and battery.

8 Under 350, those three problems still 9 exist. I don't know whether or not false imprisonment of a 10 child under 14 was a common-law misdemeanor. I don't know 11 whether 350 elevates it to a life sentence. Problems two and 12 three still exist under the statute. It does convert lesser 13 offenses just on the basis of one's age into capital offenses.

14 Given the analogy that I've already 15 described, if a person takes a child under the age of 14 into 16 the hallway and commits an assault and battery outside of the 17 presence of the parents, then what we've done is made an 18 assault and battery a life offense.

19 Likewise, prosecution has the opportunity
20 to overcharge on that given offense. Problems two and three 21 still exist under 350 that the interpolation of that 22 asportation will cure.

23 Now the Court may be hung up on the 24 specific intent element of 350 doesn't necessitate 25 asportation. But what the defendant suggests is that this

1 specific intent is one, illusory; and two, really cannot -- is 2 a necessary consequence if there is an underlined crime.

3 For example, if you have the parents in 4 this courtroom, they certainly would not allow an individual 5 to slap their child and commit an assault and battery in their 6 presence. If that individual wants to commit the assault and 7 battery, he would necessarily remove the child outside of the 8 parents' view. He would take the child into the hallway, do 9 it outside the parents' view. He is entrained to get the 10 child outside of the parents' guardianship to commit an 11 assault and battery.

12 Now, that now becomes a life offense.
13 Unless there is a settlement of asportation in this, that's 14 what's going to happen. Wesley and Adams has thwarted the 15 prosecution from simply tagging along life offenses where 16 there are minor crimes, or where there are major life offenses
17 in Wesley, by requiring asportation.

18 In this case, what the prosecution is 19 doing is going around the asportation element by using -- by 20 virtue of the child's age, and then saying, look, there is no 21 asportation, we can overcharge, we can make what's obviously 22 an offense another life offense to be considered.

23 Problems two and three still exist under 24 350. The Court in Adams said that these specific intents do 25 not necessitate asportation. Did not state any specific

1 intent. It enumerates which specific intents. The specific 2 intent in 350 is merely to detain or conceal the child. And 3 I submit to the Court that that does not weigh equally as 4 taking hostage, extorting money, committing murder, or 5 secretly confining an individual.

6 If it does weigh equally, then the Court
7 would surely say that detaining a child, just detaining a 8 child, you don't need a specific intent, you don't need -- I 9 mean, you do need specific intent and negates any need for 10 asportation.

11 What the defense submits is that specific 12 intent in 350 does not weigh equally as the ones that Adams
13 supports, saying that no asportation is necessary. Problems
14 two and three still exist under the existing statute and I 15 feel that it is unconstitutional for those reasons.

16 THE COURT: Mr. Bramble?

17 MR. BRAMBLE: Your Honor, I had a chance
18 to review both Wesley and 350 and I will be very brief. ???
19 and Wesley says that when --

20 THE REPORTER: Mr. Bramble, you have to 21 speak up, please.

22 MR. BRAMBLE: Sure. The information in 23 the -- the holding in Wesley says that when an information 24 charged in the offense under the forceful confinement part of 25 the kidnapping statute --

1 THE COURT: Slow down, too.

2 MR. BRAMBLE: -- part of the kidnapping
3 statute, section A, the following elements must be proven.
4 They go into asportation aspect. But, clearly, we haven't 5 charged the defendant under that portion of the statute.

6 Number two, as I read 350, the forceful
7 confinement never has to enter into the picture with this. It 8 is the -- if a person takes, carries away, leads away, or 9 entices away. And there's even a word, "lead". So, the 10 leading away of a child with the intent. So, there doesn't 11 have to be any effort to conceal, or imprison, or anything of 12 that nature, or there doesn't have to be any concealment or 13 imprisonment. The fact that they take that person away with 14 the intent to do so, the act is completed and the crime was 15 committed.

16 The fact that this is, again, a different 17 statute involving a child, I think is significant in that 18 regard. I submit that that element, as requested by defense 19 counsel, is not needed.

20 And I actually went -- as I was searching 21 for elements of the offense, I went to, and I'm not sure if 22 these are this Court's elements or not, but I looked into a 23 case that involved this and the jury instructing on this never 24 required that particular -- the Court instructing on this 25 never required that element as well.

1 THE COURT: Ms. Krause, anything you want
2 to say on this issue on behalf of Stephen Turner?

3 MS. KRAUSE: No, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: The statute under which Mr.
5 Daniel Turner is charged with kidnapping is not, everyone
6 agrees, the statute which was at issue for The People vs
7 Adams. It is, in fact, a much different statute. So 8 different, in my judgment, that the decisions in those cases 9 do not apply.

10 I used the plural word "decisions" because 11 what the Supreme Court did in Adams was adopt, with one or two 12 modifications, the Court of Appeals decision, by then, Judge 13 Levin. So, in fact, to analyze Adams, you'd have to look at 14 both decisions. The differences are two, and, as I say, I 15 think they are very major differences.

16 First of all, the kidnapping or child-17 enticement statute, which we're using now, Section 350 of the 18 Penal Code, does not have forcible confinement as an element.
19 It's elements, in terms of the acts required of the defendant, 20 are much distinct from that and require some much more active 21 activity, if you will. It's simply not confining someone.
22 There has to be taking, leading, carrying away, decoying, or 23 enticing them away.

24 That is significant for this reason:
25 forcible confinement, being an element that the Court of

1 Appeals and Supreme Court said in Adams created too much 2 prospect off a crime otherwise not nearly as serious as 3 kidnapping becoming kidnapping because forcible confinement is 4 very often an inevitable element of some other offense and 5 they didn't think it appropriate to aggravate much less 6 serious offenses into life offenses as the result of a 7 necessary element of the lesser offense, coincidentally, also 8 being an element of kidnapping.

9 Whether the current Supreme Court would 10 rule that way is an interesting question, but not something 11 which need detain us, because they never overturned Adams and, 12 therefore, this Court must follow it.

13 This statute, 350, simply does not, as I
14 say, involve an element of forcible confinement. It, 15 therefore, does not raise the specter of some act incident to 16 a lesser offense being aggravated simply by commission of the 17 lesser offense into the more serious one.

18 There is a second reason why Adams does 19 not apply. And that is that, unlike Section 349, Section 350 20 has a very specific intent which is required. And that is an 21 intent to detain or conceal the child from it's parents or 22 guardians. I believe, frankly, that is an element which, in 23 any given case, the prosecution is likely to have difficulty 24 proving. It can be proven, but it is not an easy element by 25 any means.

1 It, however, clearly eliminates the 2 problem of some other offense becoming kidnapping under this 3 statute simply by virtue of some incident. It's not enough to 4 commit the other offense, it's not enough to commit the other 5 offense by means of decoying a child or enticing the child to 6 come with you. The kidnapping occurs only if, in addition to 7 everything else, there is proven to have existed a specific 8 intent to detain or conceal the child from its parents.

9 If that is proven, the fact that it was 10 part of a scheme to commit another crime does not, I think, in 11 any fashion, render it unfair, that when that particular 12 element is proven, a separate crime has occurred. It is 13 appropriate for the Legislature to conclude that someone who 14 acts with a specific purpose of taking a child from its 15 parents, which puts the child at significant risk by virtue of 16 that intent, alone, and was a separate crime to be dealt with 17 very severely.

18 Perhaps an argument can be made that a 19 possible life sentence is too severe, but that's for the 20 Legislature to determine, because they have not mandated a 21 life sentence, they've simply said life for any term of years.
22 So depending upon the circumstances, it could be a relatively 23 minor sentence or a very serious one.

24

25 The simple fact is that all of the

1 concerns that the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court had 2 in Adams which prompted their addition to save the 3 constitutionality of Section 349 of an asportation element, do
4 not exist here. You do not need any additional element, 5 asportation, or anything else, to have a constitutional 6 statute which does not pose the problems that Section 349 have 7 posed.

8 Accordingly, this Court will not be 9 instructing that there is any required asportation. The Court 10 will instruct the jury that there are three elements:

11 Number one, that the child had been led,
12 taken, or carried away, or decoyed or enticed. Actually, four 13 elements. That she was under the age of 14 when that 14 happened, that it was done maliciously, forcibly, and 15 fraudulently, which I take to mean by some force with 16 knowledge that it was wrong and without any belief that they 17 had authority from the parents to do it. And that this was 18 all done with the specific intent to detain or conceal the 19 child from its parents or guardians.

20 Let's move on to the testimony of Ms. Mona
21 Eckloff (phonetic). Mr. Mirque?

22 MR. MIRQUE: Okay, your Honor.

23 THE COURT: That's the psychologist from 24 Milwaukee, Mr. Bramble.

25 And before we get too far into this, Mr.

1 Mirque, would you tell me what it is in this testimony she 2 gave in Milwaukee you wish to present to the jury.

3 MR. MIRQUE: The only bit of information
4 we hope to gather out of this entire transcript, your Honor,
5 is just the diagnosis. On page -- actually it's not even a 6 page of the transcript, but it was the report submitted into 7 evidence. Under -- it's page five of the Capital Square
8 Associates under assessment.

9 According to the revised diagnostic and 10 statistical manual three, by which all of the standardized 11 psychiatric diagnosis are made, the criteria -- Daniel meets 12 all of the criteria for the diagnosis and that he has 13 experienced persistent discomfort as a male.

14 That particular paragraph, the assessment,
15 that is all we are asking for. We don't want any testimony or 16 any mitigating factors. We're not interested in all of that 17 because, quite frankly, we're going to have somebody up there 18 to assist us in telling us all about the issue trans-19 genderism.

20 THE COURT: Then it wasn't true, all this 21 talk we told the jury that it's not an issue in this case.

22 MR. MIRQUE: Well, it may not be. I mean, 23 if we are not going to be able to get this in, then the 24 relevancy of the expert is not going to be -- is going to be 25 moot. Because we won't be able to testify as to whether or

1 not he is transgender or transvestite.

2 THE COURT: Is the expert you propose to 3 call in a position to make the diagnosis? Or is that expert 4 dependant upon Ms. Eckloff's diagnosis?

5 MR. MIRQUE: That expert can only comment, 6 at this time, on the basis of another -- he's not going to -- 7 he's clearly not going to say that he's had any interaction 8 with Mr. Turner. All he's going to do is portray a very 9 general, very explanatory explanation of what it means to be 10 a transgender. That cross-dressing for a transgender 11 individual is not a sexual deviation, but a sexual 12 identification problem.

13 He's not going to say that he's not a 14 child, pedophile. He's not going to say the he's a 15 homosexual. He's not going to say anything other than the 16 fact that this is why transgenders cross dress. Because they 17 have it in their mind that they are women. Not because they 18 do it for sexual gratification, which a transvestite does.
19 There is a big difference between the two. And without the 20 diagnosis, sexual gratification versus gratification of a 21 gender identity problem is totally separate. I don't want the 22 jury to get the impression that Mr. Turner cross dresses for 23 sexual pleasure. That's not what he does it for. That's not 24 why he does it. He does it because he believes he is a woman.

25 And all we need is the diagnosis. And we

1 can't get the diagnosis because, first of all, no doctor in 2 this area has been willing to touch the issue. And those that 3 have been able to do it say it's going to take a long time to 4 get this thing done. I've got to do testing, I've got to do 5 counseling, I've got to do X number of things, it's going to 6 be incredibly economically burdensome, it's going to be time 7 consuming, and given that Mr. Turner is on no bond, we've got 8 this speedy docket thing to get done. It's just not possible 9 to have an appropriate diagnosis of transgenderism given the 10 fact situations of what we have here.

11 We have a diagnosis. It's legitimate in 12 the State of Wisconsin. I don't think that it's going to 13 prejudice the prosecution in any manner because the 14 prosecution is going to have the opportunity to cross examine 15 the one expert who is going to be able to say whether or not 16 transgender or transvestitism is of any concern to this trial.

17 I don't -- I think it's a reasonable
18 request because we are just using it for a limited purpose.

19 THE COURT: I read this testimony, Mr.
20 Mirque, and I recall at one point Ms. Eckloff saying that her 21 opinion was based upon some tests she had administered and 22 maybe one session with Mr. Turner.

23 MR. MIRQUE: One session -- one, I think 24 it was two, 1-1/2 to 2-hour sessions and then there was 25 correspondence between --

1 THE REPORTER: Wait a minute. Two 1 \ -1/2
2 hour -- what did you say?

3 MR. MIRQUE: No, I'm sorry. I think it
4 was 1-1/2 to 2-hour session and then some correspondence
5 between Mr. Turner and herself.

6 THE COURT: Well, if the experts you have 7 consulted here say that they can't make a comparable diagnosis
8 without treatment, counseling, and a variety of other things 9 which obviously implicate a lot more than one 1-1/2 to 2-hour
10 session, doesn't that really establish the value of some cross 11 examination as well as call in to serious question without at 12 least her here to explain this diagnosis she having done it 13 under circumstances where all of the experts you have 14 consulted won't do it?

15 MR. MIRQUE: No, your Honor. Because even 16 though Ms. Eckloff did not personally do it, members of her 17 counseling team administered tests, and MMPIs, Wechslers, what 18 have you. That was all done, but it was not done in the 19 presence of Ms. Eckloff. So even if --

20 THE COURT: But isn't there also the 21 problem here that all of those tests were unavailable to her, 22 except the one that she administered? Didn't she specifically 23 say they did an MMPI and she didn't have it, couldn't find it, 24 or something to that extent?

25 MR. MIRQUE: I'm not quite sure, your

1 Honor. All I know is that Ms. Eckloff was relying on certain 2 test results and that the psychologist that I had spoken also 3 was going to have to rely on certain test results, and it was 4 going to take them more than two hours to administer those 5 tests, more than the counseling of which Ms. Eckloff says she 6 did.

7 THE COURT: Ms. Krause, what have you got 8 to say about all of this?

9 MS. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I don't have 10 anything to add because I don't believe that this issue, at 11 this time, affects my client. I don't think this evidence is 12 going to be brought into trial against my client and I don't 13 have to add.

14 THE COURT: Mr. Bramble?

15 MR. BRAMBLE: Your Honor --

16 THE COURT: Before we do that, Mr. Mirque, 17 was this report actually an exhibit in the proceedings in 18 Milwaukee? It's attached to what I have here. There is some 19 talk about a report she prepared, but I can't find in the 20 transcript any actual place where she --

21 MR. MIRQUE: On page two, under the 22 exhibits, we have the report of Mona Eckloff under the date of 23 February 3, 1998 (sic) --

24 THE REPORTER: 1998?

25 MR. MIRQUE: I'm sorry, 1988, received.

1 I'm assuming that the Court accepted this 2 as evidence. As a matter of fact, I think the prosecutor in 3 this case stipulated to the issuance of that report after 4 there was some voir dire of the expert.

5 THE COURT: Mr. Bramble?

6 MR. BRAMBLE: Your Honor, I would oppose 7 the admission of the report or anything contained in the 8 materials provided by defense counsel. Several factors cause 9 me to object.

10 Number one, this was a sentencing hearing, 11 or a hearing on sentence modification motion. I think it's 12 far different than a trial and the purpose of the prosecutor 13 cross examining an individual would be different than my 14 purposes or my reason for doing so here at a trial on an 15 entirely different matter than the defendant was sentenced on 16 in Milwaukee.

17 There are other factors as well. I
18 noticed in reading through this there is reference, at least 19 on page 13 and a couple other areas, that the witness refers 20 to reports of another doctor an either disagreeing -- or 21 agreeing with the reports, that's Dr. Ladwig (phonetic), but 22 I don't have those reports and we don't have -- obviously know 23 who Dr. Ladwig is or what his findings or her findings were.

24 Another factor is the fact that any 25 analysis or any judgment that took place referred to a report

1 that was apparently put together in February of 1988, some 2 five years ago, or over five years ago.

3 For all of these reasons and, finally, I
4 guess I'm not convinced this is even relevant to the purpose 5 that we're here before this court; that is, a criminal sexual 6 conduct and kidnapping.

7 So, for all of those reasons I move the 8 motion be denied.

9 MR. MIRQUE: May I respond, your Honor?

10 The test is not whether these questions 11 that the prosecutor in Milwaukee had asked would have been the 12 same questions that Mr. Bramble would ask. It's whether or 13 not the predecessor in interest had an opportunity to ask 14 these type of questions, not whether or not he would have had 15 the exact same questions because, clearly, then, this rule 16 will never be permitted.

17 You know, any lawyer could come and say, 18 well, I wouldn't cross examine her in that manner, I would 19 have ask her different questions. If that's the standard, 20 then it never would have happened.

21 Whether or not the predecessor in 22 interest, prosecutor in Milwaukee versus the prosecutor in 23 Kent County, the prosecutor in Milwaukee had the opportunity 24 to do a more in-depth cross examination. The expert, whether 25 the prosecutor in Milwaukee had a more in-depth opportunity to

1 commit a more in-depth cross examination of diagnostic 2 materials. She didn't. She had the opportunity, and I
3 believe that's a standard by which the predecessor in interest
4 should be viewed under. I don't think we would argue that -- 5 we would argue differently or I ask questions differently is 6 the standard for the test.

7 THE COURT: This Court is satisfied that 8 the proffered "testimony", and I use that word in quotations 9 for reasons I'll explain in a moment, of Ms. Eckloff is 10 inadmissible in this proceeding for a host of reasons.

11 The reason I use the word testimony in 12 quotations is the fact that, in reality, what is being offered 13 here is not the testimony in the traditional sense, but the 14 statement made in a report which was introduced as an exhibit 15 at a proceeding at which the author testified.

16 I am, however, for the sake of argument, 17 going to assume that inasmuch as the report was admitted as an 18 exhibit and there were some references, albeit oblique ones, 19 in the testimony of Ms. Eckloff to that report, that the 20 contents to the report were, for all practical purposes, 21 adopted by a reference and constitute testimony within the 22 meaning of Rule 804.

23 Rule -- the testimony is not admissible,
24 however, to begin with because it is hearsay, not accepted
25 from the prohibition on hearsay. The only possible available

1 exception to that prohibition is Michigan Rule of Evidence 2 804B1. That rule has several prongs to it, only two of which 3 have been met here, at least two of which have not been met.

4 It clearly was testimony, if we include
5 the report within testimony, at another hearing, not in this 6 proceeding, but in a different proceeding.

7 The -- it also was testimony from an 8 individual, who, although we haven't talked about it here, I'm 9 satisfied from the statements that were made in chambers, 10 can't be located and it is therefore deemed to be unavailable.
11 So those two predicates are satisfied.

12 However, in order to admit testimony of a 13 witness who is unavailable, testimony given in a different 14 proceeding, a couple of other things have to be established.
15 In a criminal case, the proponent must establish that the same 16 party against whom the evidence is being offered here was a 17 party in the other proceeding. And I cannot say that the 18 prosecuting authority in the State of Wisconsin is the same 19 party as the prosecuting authority in the State of Michigan.

20 I understand the argument is often made
21 and accepted that the government is the government, but I 22 don't ever recall that being crossed jurisdictional lines.

23 Secondly, and more significantly, even if 24 we assume that a prosecutor is a prosecutor and, therefore, 25 the same parties were involved in the Wisconsin proceeding and

1 in this proceeding, there has to have been, not only an 2 opportunity to cross examine, but a similar motive to develop 3 the testimony.

4 And I don't believe, given what I see 5 here, that it can be said that that motive existed. What was 6 going on in Wisconsin was a relatively short hearing at which 7 a judge was being asked to modify a burglary sentence. That's 8 much different than a proceeding at which we are going to have 9 to determine whether criminal sexual conduct occurred.

10 A sentencing is post-conviction. This 11 is, of course, is pre-conviction. Sentencing proceedings are 12 not nearly as elaborate as are trials, don't involve nearly 13 the same kinds of questions. There is simply such a big 14 difference between what they were doing in Wisconsin and what 15 they were doing here that I can't say that there was a similar 16 motive.

17 Now, to put it bluntly, the approach that 18 someone takes at a proceeding like what was being done here, 19 given my experience on requests for resentencing, which this 20 really was, are quite legitimately much different and more 21 relaxed than are issues raised in a trial of this particular 22 sort.

23 Therefore, while Ms. Eckloff is 24 unavailable, as defined by 804A5, and while the testimony that 25 is offered was taken in another proceeding under oath it,

1 nonetheless, remains hearsay because the prosecutor in this 2 case was not involved in that case and because while maybe the 3 prosecutor there had an opportunity to more fully cross
4 examine, that prosecutor didn't have the same motive and I 5 would doubt, frankly, he had the same opportunity. If, given 6 the nature of that proceeding, anywhere near as elaborate a 7 cross examination as is appropriate here was tried there, it 8 would have been cut off in a minute by the judge as going much 9 beyond what was appropriate in that particular case.

10 Therefore, the statement remains hearsay 11 and, as such, because there is no exception applicable, is 12 inadmissible for that problem. Lets for the sake of argument, 13 however, assume away the hearsay problem; assume that this 14 evidence does not violate the prohibition on hearsay. It is 15 still inadmissible because it does not satisfy Michigan Rule 16 of Evidence 702, which it must satisfy in order to be 17 received, is that which it is offered as, the opinion of an 18 expert. So even if it's not hearsay, that doesn't make it 19 admissible, that simply gets rid of one inadmissibility 20 problem. There are still other hurdles to overcome.

21

22 On this record, there is absolutely no
23 basis for this Court to conclude that the discipline with 24 regard to which Ms. Eckloff was testifying, and the diagnosis 25 to which she was testifying, if we assume that submitting the

1 report constituted testimony to that diagnosis comes anywhere
2 close to satisfying the Davis/Frye test in Michigan, or the 3 more relaxed, People vs Beckley Badour test for a more 4 biological or sociological sciences, et cetera, excuse me.
5 Nor can it even be said that anything has been presented here
6 from which I can conclude that the potentially new and much 7 more relaxed test in Daubert vs Merrell Dow, 113 Supreme Court 8 2786 has been satisfied here.

9 I simply have no basis upon which to 10 conclude that the Interpersonal Inventory Test, to which 11 reference is made by Ms. Eckloff, is capable of diagnosing 12 transsexualism. I have no basis on the record presented thus 13 far to conclude that there is any expertise in this particular 14 area, or that there is a legitimate discipline, however 15 modestly you might want to define it, that distinguishes 16 between transgenderalism, transsexualism, transvestitism, or 17 whatever.

18 Therefore, even if Ms. Eckloff were here,
19 I wouldn't allow her to testify, at least based upon what I 20 have thus far.

21 There are other problems which provide 22 independent bases for concluding that the evidence is not 23 admissible. Neither Rule 703 nor 705, under the 24 circumstances, can arguably be satisfied. Those rules 25 authorize the Court, when it thinks it appropriate, to require

1 that the underlying data and bases for an opinion be presented 2 as evidence. We can't do that in this particular case because 3 we don't have any of that data offered here. We have the 4 report, but we don't have the test results, the test 5 documents, themselves, we don't have a lot of that to which 6 the report makes reference.

7 In addition to that, assuming that we have 8 all of these other problems out of the way, the evidence here
9 is, I submit, simply too old to be relevant. We're talking 10 about a diagnosis in 1988 without any predicate for concluding 11 that such a diagnosis remains constant over time. Nor do we 12 know how the discipline, if there is such a discipline, has, 13 in fact, matured or regressed between 1988 and 1993.

14 Accordingly, it's simply too remote in 15 time to be significantly relevant. If it is relevant, the 16 passage of time clearly creates a 403 problem. And then, 17 frankly, we have a glaring 403 problem. And that comes from 18 the fact that the experts who would be called here to explain 19 certain things, based upon the diagnosis of Ms. Eckloff, has 20 been represented to this court, are not willing to make the 21 same diagnosis themselves because they do not have an adequate 22 predicate in terms of disclosure to Mr. Daniel Turner to do 23 that. And yet, from having read the testimony here, Ms.
24 Eckloff's testimony -- or exposure was considerably less than, 25 I'm being told, these people would insist on because they

1 don't have it and won't give any evidence with regard to it.

2 So even if we can get over all of the 3 other hurdles, we've got a situation where I think Rule 403 is 4 clearly violated if I let the evidence in. It's too 5 significant of a point to be presented in this fashion. To 6 have a five-year-old diagnosis, without any of the bases for 7 that diagnosis presented to this jury, and then allow people 8 who would not be willing to make the same diagnosis themselves 9 then explain various things, all of this being done without 10 any opportunity on the part of the prosecution to cross 11 examine them.

12 Accordingly, for all of those reasons, the 13 Court will not receive either testimony or the report of Ms.
14 Eckloff as an exhibit. I will, obviously, make same a matter
15 of a separate record here so that if it becomes necessary, a 16 higher, wiser court can review the matter.

17 MR. MIRQUE: Your Honor, will that record
18 then be available for an offer of proof, or a record for a 19 reviewing court to look at.

20 THE COURT: I don't understand what you
21 mean. I'm going to make what you've given me as a --

22 MR. MIRQUE: I know. But what I want is 23 either an offer of proof later on in the trial that that 24 particular piece of evidence that I submitted to you be made 25 available for a higher court to review or be made record.

1 Which do you prefer, do you want to make --

2 THE COURT: I still don't understand what 3 you are asking. If what you are saying -- I deem this to be 4 an offer of proof. I will put this in the record and the 5 Court of Appeals, or the Supreme Court, or both will review
6 everything I've reviewed. If there's something more you want 7 to present --

8 MR. MIRQUE: Just that.

9 THE COURT: All right, then. Then the 10 transcript of the proceedings on May 17, 1988, in the 11 Jefferson County Circuit Court involving a Mr. Daniel A.
12 Turner, whom I presume is the same individual, will be made a 13 part of this record so that higher courts can review it. And, 14 obviously, the statements made by counsel here as to what he 15 wanted to present and if he was allowed to present it, what 16 other evidence he would present, also constitute a component 17 of that offer of proof and are there for any higher court to 18 deal with.

19 I think, Mr. Mirque, that takes care of 20 your issues. Does it?

21 MR. MIRQUE: I think so.

22 There are a couple of witnesses that came 23 up off the list that were not endorsed. And I would like to 24 know whether those are going to be endorsed at this time. Dr.
25 Cox. Is he endorsed or not endorsed?

LESLIE BROWN, CSR KENT COUNTY CIRCUIT COURT
(616) 336-3786

1 THE COURT: By "endorsed", do you mean is 2 he going to be called or not?

3 MR. MIRQUE: Yes. Dr. Cox is 4 not on our witness list. And if he's not going to be called, 5 then I want to know in advance whether we have to subpoena 6 him.

7 MR. BRAMBLE: You want him called and you
8 want him here?

9 MR. MIRQUE: I want him here. Correct.

10 MR. BRAMBLE: I'll have him here.

11 THE COURT: Okay.

12 MR. MIRQUE: And the other witness that 13 are on the list that's not already endorsed as to this one 14 here. There's two or three that have been mentioned in here.

15 THE COURT: Why don't you give us some 16 names, Mr. Mirque. Whom do you want to know if they are going 17 to be called?

18 MR. MIRQUE: Well, there's a whole list of 19 witnesses that Kevin read here during the voir dire and some 20 of them, quite frankly, didn't appear our the witness list.
21 That gives him some room so that he doesn't have to call them 22 if they are not endorsed.

23 MR. BRAMBLE: Tell me who you want here
24 and I'll --

25 MR. MIRQUE: Dr. Edward Cox and Ruth

1 Hamstra, the registered nurse.

2 THE COURT: I take it, Mr. Bramble, there 3 will be either witnesses or be available to be called by the 4 defense.

5 MR. BRAMBLE: Yes, your Honor.

6 THE COURT: Ms. Krause, anything we need 7 to do other than have me put on the record my ruling with 8 regard to your rejected challenges for cause yesterday 9 afternoon?

10 MS. KRAUSE: Not to my client,
11 individually. I still think there were pretrial matters that 12 we all discussed in chambers on Monday that I think should be 13 put on the record and solidified before we begin opening 14 statements.

15 And I believe one final issue that needs 16 to be addressed is what we are going to do, if anything, with 17 the information that was put into -- or that we received in 18 the counseling reports in reference to Lakeysha Cage.

19 THE COURT: Well, let's put on the record
20 that agreements were made as to what was not going to be done 21 in terms of evidence, so that's a matter of record, and then 22 I'll ask you what you want to do with regard to Ms. Cage's 23 counseling record.

24 Ms. Krause, why don't you go ahead and put 25 on the record what was discussed between you and other

1 counsel.

2 MS. KRAUSE: Thank you, your Honor.

3 It is my understanding that in reference
4 to Stephen Turner, my client, the issue that he may be a cross 5 dresser is not going to be brought up by the prosecution in 6 this case. I do not anticipate making that an issue and Mr.
7 Bramble has assured me that he will make all efforts to keep 8 that information out as it relates to my client, individually.
9 Is that accurate?

10 MR. BRAMBLE: If the question being posed 11 to me is, do I plan on producing evidence that your client is 12 a cross dresser, no.

13 You know, I guess there is going to be 14 evidence of that regarding the co-defendant and -- is my aim 15 or purpose to bring any of that out? No.

16 MR. KRAUSE: I acknowledge, for the 17 record, that it's going to come in against the co-defendant.
18 My concern is my client, Stephen Turner. I don't want any 19 prejudicial information coming in against my client. I ask 20 the prosecution, as the Court ruled, that that is irrelevant 21 and prejudicial to my client, and that it not come in.

22 THE COURT: Well, the Court has ruled 23 tentatively that it appears to be irrelevant, and so long as 24 it remains irrelevant, it's not to come in. But we haven't 25 had the evidence presented yet and, therefore, there are

1 circumstances, I can imagine, under which might become an 2 issue. I recall, however, that at least this thing sounds to 3 me and the prosecution doesn't propose to present it and will 4 present it only if the doors are opened.

5 What I would suggest we do is make no
6 reference to it in opening statement, and before any attempt 7 is made to introduce such evidence, the prosecution and then 8 defense counsel meet with me either at the bench or otherwise 9 out of the presence of the jury to see if it has, in fact,
10 become admissible. It certainly does not appear to be, given 11 what we understand to be the description of the transaction at 12 issue here. We'll just have to wait and see if something else 13 develops.

14 MS. KRAUSE: Very well.

15 Additionally, your Honor, there were 16 numerous items taken out of Apartment 204, at Cory 130, Oak 17 Park, S.E., which is the alleged scene of the offense.
18 Several of those items, in my opinion, are irrelevant, but 19 even if there is minimal relevance, 403 prejudice would 20 preclude them of being introduced by the prosecution.

21 Particularly, I am referring to 22 photographs of my client dressed as a woman. As we've already 23 had a ruling that at least at this point that it is irrelevant 24 to the case and is not coming in. Photographs, obviously, are 25 going to be irrelevant as well.

1 There are, in addition to my client being 2 dressed in woman's clothing, there are photographs of other 3 unknown individuals who are men dressed as women, that I also 4 believe are irrelevant, and I believe that those should stay 5 out.

6 Do you want me to go item-by-item and make 7 it one ruling, or do I rule one at a time?

8 THE COURT: Just keep going. They sound
9 like they are all variations on the same theme.

10 MS. KRAUSE: There were also children's 11 clothing and toys removed from the apartment. It is my 12 understanding that these will not be used in any way, shape, 13 or form by the prosecution to substantiate or attempt to prove 14 this case.

15 I believe that if they are used, one of 16 two things will happen: One, the prosecutor will be trying to 17 imply that these were somehow related to the offense or show
18 that my client somehow has proclivities with children. I 19 think that's irrelevant and prejudicial.

20 The other thing is, is that if I am forced 21 to, I could bring the wife of my client in to testify that 22 those are, in fact, the clothes of children that belong to her 23 and my client's children. I don't want to have to be put in 24 that position, given this Court's prior ruling, that the wife 25 cannot be forced to testify against my client.

1 There are two letters that were taken out
2 of the apartment. One is entitled, To All You Straight Peers.
3 The other is entitled, Mother Dear, My First Love. These 4 items are of no relevance to the case. Again, they have 5 nothing to do with the elements that Mr. Bramble has to try to 6 prove here, nor do they have anything to do with what the 7 alleged victim has testified to thus far. I believe they 8 would be extremely prejudicial and of little probative value.

9 Additionally, there were numerous computer 10 disks taken out of the apartment, some of which may be 11 relevant to the prosecutor's case. The alleged victim in this 12 case spoke of playing computer games during the commission of 13 the alleged offense. She was very specific about which 14 computer games were being played. I think the prosecutor 15 would agree with me that there were hundreds disks taken out 16 of the apartment, most of which we do not know what they are 17 because the last I was informed by the State, many of them 18 could not be accessed.

19 Again, I don't want there to be any 20 implication or any chance for the jury to impermissibly infer 21 that these are all some kind of either pornographic or 22 improper computer games or anything else. Again, they are not 23 relevant, and if there is minimal relevance, the prejudicial 24 effect could be devastating to my client.

25 There were sexual aids removed from the

1 house as well. Specifically, a dildo as well as other sexual 2 aids. There was no reference of these items made by the 3 alleged victim in any other testimony, so they are not 4 relevant. They are, again, your Honor, prejudicial effect 5 could be devastating to my client.

6 Those are the items I have main concern
7 about. If other items are attempted to be introduced at the 8 time of trial, I will make appropriate objections, but these 9 are the ones of main concern at this point in time.

10 THE COURT: Mr. Mirque?

11 MR. MIRQUE: Your Honor, I'm going to echo 12 much of what Ms. Krause has said. A lot of this stuff, unless 13 it comes in through the girl and is somehow related to this 14 whole affair, things found underneath beds or tucked away in 15 suitcases that the girl never saw is irrelevant. Things like 16 sex aids and clothing that was stashed in a drawer. Now, 17 clearly, it's been said the girl was trying on clothes, and I 18 have no objection that that is evidence that should probably 19 come in, but other clothing that the girl never saw, other 20 clothing in the drawers or whatever. All of this female 21 attire, the girl has no knowledge of and, really, there is no 22 bearing on this case, other than my guy is this cross dresser, 23 is irrelevant.

24 Likewise, the toys, which are not -- there
25 has been no showing having any relationship with Daniel

1 Turner, rather they are owned by Stephen Turner. The 2 children's clothes, again, no relevance to Daniel Turner and,
3 again, belonged to Stephen Turner. I don't think that stuff 4 should come in.

5 Sex aids or adult sex aids, the girl never 6 saw them, there has been no information from her or from the 7 police department that there's been any child pornography, 8 anything of that nature. This stuff is truly inflammatory, 9 truly prejudicial to Mr. Turner's behalf. That poetry, the 10 girl never heard of. No. It just doesn't have any bearing on 11 the issues of this case. I think that it's irrelevant and 12 prejudicial, substantially prejudicial.

13 THE COURT: Mr. Bramble?

14 MR. BRAMBLE: Briefly, your Honor, these 15 sexual devices, for lack of a better word, found in a closed 16 container, as I indicated in chambers, unless they do become 17 relevant by the child's testimony, they really aren't of any 18 significance.

19 Regarding the children's clothes, I think 20 there may come a point where the victim testifies, regarding 21 certain items of clothing she was asked to try on by Mr.
22 Mirque's client, Daniel Turner, some of them may actually be 23 children's clothing. If that is, in fact, the case, and I 24 have reason to believe that is the case, I think they become 25 relevant and they are admissible.

1 Regarding the toys, the children's toys
2 that were found there, again, unless they become relevant 3 based on the testimony of Lakeysha Cage, I don't plan on 4 producing them.

5 Regarding the computer disks. There were,
6 as Ms. Krause indicated, countless computer disks. Many, or 7 if not all of them, we have unable to access despite 8 considerable effort. I believe that they become relevant in 9 that there will be testimony that, on this computer screen, 10 through this computer system, certain games were played off 11 the disks. And at that time, I believe the testimony will be 12 that Miss Cage was actually sitting on Mr. Turner's lap and 13 was being felt or her chest was being touched by Mr. Turner, 14 Daniel Turner.

15 So I suspect those will become relevant.

16 THE COURT: Have you, in fact, accessed 17 any of the computer tapes to find the games she was talking 18 about?

19 MR. BRAMBLE: No. That's been our 20 efforts, is to try and find that game. We've found a few 21 others, but have not been able to find the actual one. Our 22 ability to get into these disks has been very limited.

23 THE COURT: So it's not a question of you 24 looked, and that game isn't there, it's that you can't even 25 determine what's on some of those disks.

1 MR. BRAMBLE: Correct.

2 Regarding the poetry, or whatever, the 3 writings, either of these defendants', again, unless they are 4 made relevant, either by cross examination of the defense or 5 through direct examination of Miss Cage, I don't plan on 6 producing them.

7 Regarding the clothing that would be found
8 in the drawers and, what have you, I believe there will be 9 testimony from, again, Miss Cage that she was asked or told to 10 try on clothing by the defendant and I submit where -- if the 11 search warrant reveals that the clothing on this night and 12 type and nature were found in the apartment, regardless of 13 where they were found is -- it's relevant evidence to 14 demonstrate that this young girl says that it was tried on and 15 if it's found, that it be admitted at trial.

16 MS. KRAUSE: Your Honor, for the record, 17 I would ask that the prosecutor to clarify which defendant he 18 is referring to as to the article of -- or as to the item of 19 trying on articles of clothing, because that may have a 20 difference on your ruling if it comes in against both, 21 neither, or one or the other.

22 MR. MIRQUE: Your Honor, I agree with Mr.
23 Bramble that in one way she is going to be saying which 24 clothes she would wear, but I would suggest that the young 25 lady and Mr. Bramble work out ahead of time as to which

1 clothes she did, in fact, wear to prevent coming up here and 2 parading a fashion show of all of Mr. Turner's before she hits 3 jackpot and seeing 50 different negligees before the one that,
4 perhaps, she did wear.

5 I think it can be worked out to narrow 6 down which ones were already tried on and not -- and avoid 7 this incident of having this prejudicial flooding of woman's 8 clothing. I think that is logistical, I think it's practical, 9 and it certainly would preserve Mr. Turner's evidentiary 10 rights.

11 MR. BRAMBLE: My response to that is, as 12 Mr. Mirque indicated, there may be evidence that there were 13 countless numbers of pieces of negligee, panties and bras, 14 found in the apartment. And to ask a ten-year-old to go back
15 and, among the numbers of these, to say that there are 20 16 different bras or 20 different pieces of negligee and say, it 17 was this one, may be difficult to do. Only the fact that she 18 said she tried these on, it was this type of a bra with 19 padding in it or, whatever, and she could say this was the 20 one, and what we found with a search warrant looks like it, 21 again, I think that's asking a lot of an eleven-year-old.

22 MR. MIRQUE: Well, then if that's all it 23 takes is, did you put this on, did you see it, I don't see any 24 relevance to bring it out to begin with. Why bring it out?
25 I mean, if she's going to testify that she wore a bra and this

1 bra had, you know, fake breasts in it --

2 THE COURT: It does tend to convince the 3 jury that she's telling the truth if, in fact, they find them 4 and if the jury never sees or hears of them, then the 5 conclusion may very well be that well, the police didn't find 6 them, otherwise we would have heard of them, and at that point 7 they are discounting the girl's testimony for a very 8 appropriate reason.

9 MR. MIRQUE: But what I don't want
10 happening is this simply true-false examination upon this girl 11 of 50 different articles of woman's clothing, because then the 12 irrelevance objection that we made earlier is moot.

13 You know, obviously the girl is not going 14 to be able to know every single item, but I don't want a 15 parade of things coming through here so that the girl can say, 16 yes, no, yes, no. The jury is going to hear -- see all of 17 this stuff. What's the point of having an irrelevancy 18 objection if they're going to see it anyway?

19 THE COURT: Well, with regard to the 20 photographs and like things of various men, maybe these 21 defendants, and others, dressed as women, at this point I 22 don't see where that is relevant, or if it's relevant, where 23 it's sufficiently probative to be admissible.

24 The letters, likewise, at this point, stay
25 out. The adult's sex aids stay out, again, unless something

1 totally unexpected happens which makes them relevant.

2 As far as the items of children's clothes 3 as well as other clothes, to the extent a child testifies that 4 she was asked to put on various clothes, be they adult, 5 woman's clothes, or certain kinds of children's clothes, if 6 the search warrant disclosed items like that, and I use the 7 word "like that" in a somewhat general term, if she talks
8 about black negligees, and black negligees were found, then I 9 think they are admissible to establish that there is a basis
10 to believe her. If she talks only about black negligees, then 11 pink ones, white ones, and other colored ones, are not, but we 12 certainly can't get to the point of saying we will admit only 13 those which she can specifically identify as the ones she was 14 asked to put on, because she probably can't do that.

15 Frankly, I think, to the extent there are 16 such items which are used to corroborate her description of 17 events, those items are admissible against both defendants 18 because, frankly, the aiding and abetting conviction requires 19 proving the other one as well. So the jury trying Mr. Stephen 20 Turner's case has got to be convinced that Mr. Daniel Turner 21 engaged in the conduct which is alleged here and so, 22 therefore, they have to hear the proofs with regard to that as 23 well. There is no need for them to hear, at this point, that 24 Mr. Stephen Turner apparently also at some point engaged in 25 this practice of cross dressing, because the girl doesn't

1 describe him as in that situation and, frankly, it's not 2 particularly pertinent to the case to whom the items in the 3 house belonged. The pertinence is their corroboration of the 4 girl's testimony if they, in fact, do that.

5 The fact that they were there and the 6 police found them shortly thereafter, gives some added weight
7 to her claim that certain things happened. Maybe not enough, 8 but that's under the admissibility question.

9 As far as the computer games are 10 concerned, it's my understanding from our previous 11 conversations that the girl describes a computer game of strip 12 poker or something to that effect; is that correct?

13 MR. BRAMBLE: Yes, your Honor.

14 THE COURT: Is that the only kind of 15 computer games she describes?

16 MS. KRAUSE: No, your Honor.

17 THE COURT: Well, unless it is stipulated,
18 -- if it is stipulated by both defense attorneys that there 19 was, in fact, found in the house, a computer strip poker game, 20 then we don't need to go into all of the computer tapes or, 21 whatever, that were found.

22 If, however, that stipulation is not made 23 by both attorneys, then in both cases, or in one case, if one 24 attorney makes the stipulation, but not the other attorney, 25 the prosecution will be entitled to have an officer establish

1 that they did find numerous computer tapes. That of those,
2 they have been able to access, the strip poker game was not 3 there, but they have not been able to access all of the others 4 and, therefore, don't know whether it is or is not there. And 5 if, in fact, what they have been able to access are sex games, 6 they may testify, generically, to that effect because that 7 will help explain that the strip poker might well be on the 8 various tapes, but can't be found.

9 If, in fact, all the computer tapes found
10 are accounting programs, or Lexis programs then, of course, 11 it's absolutely proof that there wasn't, in all likelihood, a 12 computerized sex game there in the first place, in particular, 13 strip poker.

14 So with regard to clothes, it may be 15 introduced to the extent the child testifies that she was 16 asked to put on various clothes, clothes of a like kind that 17 were found. Recognizing the parameters I have established, 18 of like kind, may be introduced, and absent the stipulation
19 that I have talked about about the strip poker game, testimony 20 may be offered that tapes were found. Some were read, some 21 cannot be. No strip poker was found on those that were read, 22 but of those that were read, they do contain various sex 23 games, and we'll leave it at that and let the jury conclude, 24 if they wish, that maybe the strip poker is on one of the 25 unaccessed tapes.

1 Has everybody got all of that figured out?

2 MR. MIRQUE: Not quite. If an officer
3 comes up and says, I did find the strip poker game, are we 4 going to be able to view that game? Are we going to be able 5 to say, okay, which disk is it, let's plug it in and take a 6 look at it?

7 THE COURT: Produce a computer, and we 8 will, if you want to do that.

9 MR. MIRQUE: Or any of the sex games that 10 Mr. Officer may testify to?

11 THE COURT: If you want to verify to the 12 jury that, in fact, he saw what he said he saw and you want to 13 play that to the jury, you may.

14 MS. KRAUSE: As a point of clarification,
15 I'm not sure what the police have read on the tapes they did 16 have access to. It is not my understanding, however, after 17 talking with the detectives, that they were sex games that 18 have been read. I want that point to be clear here. I don't 19 think any of the sex games have been uncovered on the computer 20 tapes thus far.

21 THE COURT: If they haven't been, then, 22 obviously, there won't be any testimony to that effect. The 23 testimony will be, we haven't accessed them all. Those that 24 we have accessed, we haven't found any sex games. If that's 25 the testimony, then that's what it is.

1 If, in fact, the testimony is, we have 2 found some sex games, then they may testify to that to 3 establish the possibility that, there being some sex games, 4 there were others that they haven't been able to find,
5 including the strip poker one. And if defense counsel then 6 wants to put those games on a computer so that a jury can see 7 what we're talking about, you're free to do that.

8 MR. MIRQUE: Now, just in putting in my 9 computer isn't going to be as simple as it sounds.
10 Apparently, these are rather exotic computers and that if -- 11 I know the defense is not going to be able to produce a 12 computer to read those. I would ask that the prosecution 13 bring whatever mechanical means that they did read it with and 14 bring it in. If it was an Atari game system, then the officer 15 should be prepared to have the Atari game system. Because 16 these are not general PC computers. It's an old computer 17 system.

18 THE COURT: Well, if, in fact, the 19 prosecution has readily available to it that kind of equipment 20 and can produce it here without a lot of trouble, they 21 probably should do it. If it's going to take more than that, 22 we'll revisit the situation, because what I'm not going to get 23 into is simply fortuitous burdens on the prosecution. I'm 24 going to have to be convinced, at that point, that it's really 25 worth --

1 MR. MIRQUE: Now I don't want to create an 2 entire electronics lab. It's just a matter of getting a
3 screen and a keyboard in, I don't think that's entirely 4 burdensome.

5 THE COURT: Well, presumably these games
6 were used by computers on the premises, which I would assume 7 you have access to, likewise, and you might want to look at 8 them.

9 MR. MIRQUE: I do not have access to them.
10 They didn't confiscate to the computers.

11 THE COURT: Good, then you've got the 12 computers. Bring them here.

13 MR. MIRQUE: No, we don't. They were 14 stolen in a burglary at the apartment.

15 THE COURT: We'll simply have to work out 16 and see whether or not anyone really wants to show those to 17 the jury, and if so, what's likely to be demonstrated on them 18 and we'll see how much of a burden we are going to endure to 19 present them.

20 MS. KRAUSE: Your Honor, I'm sorry, but 21 your ruling on the children's toys taken from the house was 22 what?

23 THE COURT: I never heard any claim about 24 toys. So, at this point, I would think toys are inadmissible.
25 Children's clothes may be if, in fact, the child -- will be,

1 as a matter of fact, if the child testifies that she was 2 asked, among other things, to put on children's clothes and 3 clothes of like kind were found.

4 MR. MIRQUE: Are the toys inadmissible for 5 both defendant's if testimony is such reveals that?

6 THE COURT: At this point. But, let's
7 face it, frankly, I can't, before I've heard any evidence, 8 rule on, with precision, on what's relevant and what isn't 9 irrelevant. A lot of things become relevant as the result of 10 statements and questions, as well as testimony, and we'll 11 simply have to wait and see.

12 My initial impression is is that given 13 what has been represented here, children's toys, as children's 14 toys, don't have a particular role to play here, but we'll 15 have to wait and see. Children's clothes, it's been 16 represented, may have a role to play. Adult clothes may very 17 well have a role to play. To the extent they do, they are 18 admissible.

19 MS. KRAUSE: You still haven't said what 20 we are going to do with any rape shield issues or --

21 THE COURT: Well, let's give Leslie a 22 break. She's been here all morning. We'll deal with that --

23 MR. MIRQUE: Before opening?

24 THE COURT: Well, you come and tell me in 25 a few minutes in my office what it is and why you think it's 1 admissible.
